EFFICIENCY

Sterile technique is critical to infectious disease prevention in Operating Room, Laboratory, clinical and other medical environments. The RJ Millworkers "STERI-BOX" anti-microbial line of millwork products is the solution to cumbersome cleaning procedures and ineffective infectious disease control. From veterinary clinics to the most advanced surgical centers, and every environment in between, our products define cutting edge.

VERSATILITY

Our solution is the intelligent alternative to conventional stainless steel casework. The modular approach to anti-microbial case design eliminates the need for replacement when the design of an environment changes. Our components can be reconfigured and expanded upon as the client sees fit, effectively reducing the waste footprint while promoting sustainability.

SMART MONEY

ROI is realized in short time. Sterile procedure can be revisited by infectious disease administrations at hospitals and clinics to determine new cleaning standards for our anti-microbial surfaces. Time for "Terminal Cleaning" between surgical cases is taken to scrub down the O.R. for the next case. Every inch of exposed stainless steel surface must be cleaned with aseptic solutions to prevent bacteria cultures from developing. Our surfaces allow for effective prevention against the growth of bacteria reducing the time and material costs of this function.
